

Speciality Welding Automation

Wednesday, 08 August 2007

Argon Technology have secured the contract for another purpose built welding automation project. The design, manufacture and install project will see a large scale specialty welding machine designed and delivered to assist the company achieve its production targets.

Do you need a solution to the skills shortage?
Are you looking to install or upgrade a system?

Then contact Argon.

As specialist robotic & automation engineers Argon provide the highest quality confidential services in industry. Now with well established partnerships throughout industry Argon are here to provide you with the best value systems and services around.

Need support:
Having trouble finding someone to rely upon?

If you need a solution to your automation and robotic needs then contact Argon today and leave your system and engineering problems in Argon's specialist hands.

Get back to making money, let us handle your problems and focus on what you do best,
Operating Your Business!