

Research & Development

Argon Technology carries out and provides research and development services. These are supplied to companies requiring advanced engineering and scientific knowledge to solve novel problems, improve and innovate.

Argon Technology's investment in R&D capitalises on Australia's intellectual property, being engineering and scientific knowledge and skills. We view this investment as a path to ensure our (Australia's) position at the forefront of technologies that will contribute to and shape the future. Our investment and manufacture of original equipment attests to this.