

Original Equipment Manufacture

Argon Technology commercialises its research and development projects, delivering proprietary systems, components and products. Commercialisation of technologies is seen as an important component of driving innovation and implementing industry improvement.

Our engineers also customise and refurbish equipment, systems and components. Our innovative engineering team specialise in brining new life to systems and equipment.